UTAH UNIVERSITY DEBATERS WIN FROM NEVADA.

Home Team the Victors in the Final Intercollegiate Oratorical Contest Between the Two States-Was the Third Time the Representatives of the Two Institutions Had Met.

OF UTAH'S CHAMPION DEBATING TEAM.

The University of Utah passed through one of the proudest periods of its history last night. For the third time it met the University of Nevada in joint debate and for the second time took from the brow of her sister institution the laurel wreath of victory.

Last night's contest was the decisive one for it was the last in a series of three. Each institution had won a victory before, wherefore on the the issue of this last contest both sides bung almost breathlessly. Unfortunstely for the interest of the occasion he visitors were clearly outclassed, oth in the manner of presenting their arguments and in the comprehension arguments and in the comprehension of the subject. They were very good, but the Utah boys were excellent. The reason for it may perhaps be ascribed to previous preparation. No doubt the Nevada people had worked hard, but it ran hardiy be believed that they labored and thought and argued for months with the assiduity and never-lagging enthusiasm that characterized the preparation put forth by the home team. If particular honors are to go to any one it would be fair to say that Will Ray is entitled to them because of the pithy and flery presentation of his argument and the mastery of the subject and aptitude in debate he exhibited in his rebuttal. To Miss Gertrude Sheehy, the hearts of the audience flew out at once. Her naive and girlish style coupled with a keen mind won for her the homage of all present and the most unsatisfactory part of the whole business is that it became necessary to deprive such a winsome little creature of a victory that her courage and sweetness so signally mer-ited. Her colleagues, Mr. Chase and Mr. Palmer, did remarkably well con-idering the fact that they were in a ostile atmosphere, in one sense east, and their opponents displayed an ttitude at once forceful and confident, hat is so depressing to an antagonist Young, perhaps was the rhetorician of the evening and he and Mr. Elggren

The theater was the scene of the contest and in its old walls will linger for a long time to come the schoes of the shouts of anticipated viclory that grew louder and more fren-tled until the victory was achieved was not an individual connected with the home institution, "from the lanitor down to the president," as one the admirers of the first named put, who was not there last night, at east no missing faces can be recalled. Then there were hundreds of citizens who were curious to hear the debate and the result was that the lower floor and the first balcony were filled to their eapacity. Every student had a lung full of lusty yells and under the able eadership of young Mr. Wallace they will have to divide honors as to ora-cheers three or four times over. So far as could be seen the Nevada contingent was confined to the debating and track teams and could not there fore begin to compete with their op ponents in the yelling contest, but the latter very generously cheered their neighbors every once in a while. Gov. Wells acted as the presiding officer and no one ever remembers sec-ing him in a happier mood. He was left to introduce himself and so as he stepped to the front of the stage he said: "My name is Wells; I am from Utah." Of course laughter and or Utah." Of course laughter and applause followed this announcement and after it subsided the governor stated in a very graceful manner the subject to be debated upon, viz:

"Resolved. That the whites of the southern states are justified in using all peaceable means in maintaining their supremacy over the negroes." The affirmative side to be argued by the Utah boys and the negative by the Nevada champions. He expressed the hope to the Nevada people that they would win and then turned to the Gala boys and expressed the same hope to them. A quartet, consisting of Messrs, Johnson, Best, Stringer and Parr, sang "Sweet and Low" and for an encore rendered "Beauty's Eyes."

The governor appointed Maj. R. W. Young as time keeper and stated that each speaker would be allowed 15 minutes to present his argument and 10 minutes to the two champions for re-

OPENING OF THE DEBATE. The affirmative side was opened by Burgess Young, who rested most of his argument on the differences as to ideas, character and the like, between the two races, contending that they produced antipathles that would inevitably result in a clash whenever they were brought together. He deprecated than peaceable means in maintaining supremacy over the negroes. He stat-ed that the black race could not be assimilated by the white and that a difference would always remain be-cause no man wanted to marry his daughter to a negro or his son to a negress. He declared that the characer of the negro was such that it meant either white supremacy or negro, and he latter had demonstrated his inabiliy to rule. The negative side was introduced by J. S. Case, who declared that supremaby meant suppression and that sup-pression was unwise, unjust and illogical; a poison that affords no cure. He pointed out some of the corrupt means that are being used in the south in suppressing the negro, such as bal-lot box stuffing, fradulent election counts and the like, which he said were peaceable but not lawful. He then produced some statistics showing the progress in a social and industrial way the negroes have made since their emancipation; that they would soon utgrow the suffrage limitations and xhausted the reportoire of university I then if they were discriminated against negroes, which would be hostile to true

Will Ray was greeted with tre-nendous applause and made the most forceful and telling speech of the even-ing. He said that the father was supreme over his child, but that was not suppression, and in the same sense he argued that the whites should be su-preme over the blacks and the latter would carry them to a plane beyond which they could never reach by their own efforts. He claimed that the on-

ever made was under the supermacy of the whites. The interests of the two races are for the most part the same and when the whites looked after their own they would necessarily have to look after those of the negroes. Mr. Ray then pointed out the restriction of the negroes. pointed out the corruption of the negro rule in South Carolina during the reconstruction period and declared it to be so abominable that it caused more South Carolina citizens to move out of the state than were killed during the civil war. The people could stand the ravages and pestilence of war but not the humiliation of being dominated by an ignorant and incompetent race. Such conditions resulted in the solid south. It was argued that the san-guine friends of the negro, as well as their own leaders, such as Booker T. Washington, have stated the only hope for the race is to work out the ideals of the white man. The negro has no ideals of his own and if he must adopt those of his white brother then supre-macy over him must necessarily be. Miss Gertrude Sheehy won the audience at once by her sweet personality and wit. She did not think that shoo ing negroes at the polls and stuffing the ballot boxes was much like a fath-er leading his son; nor did she think that past history had much to do with question. She declared that the un derlying principle that caused amendments to state constitutions in the south was the same as that exercised during the period of force and bondage. She urged that the ballot box was the negro's only means of protecting himself against unscrupulous politicians and money makers, and when they took that away from him they took away his hope, and with hope gone a race loses its incentives for high and noble action or aspiration. Lorenzo Elggren did himself proud in his argument, dwelling for the most part upon the illiteracy of the negroes and pointing out instances in history demonstrating their inability to ad minister the affairs of government. He said the negro could not expect a pe-culiar development, he must aim at white civilization, for where they are left alone they retrograde into ignorance and slavery again, as has been demonstrated on the islands of Hayti, Jamalea, San Domingo, and others. Wherever they obtained supremacy in the south they suspended the schools and used up the public funds

G. E. Palmer closed the debate and laid stress on the home loving qualities of the negro and introduced statistics show that the percentage of crime New York City was higher than that in the black belt of the South. He also stated that the negro fought against his emancipators in the war of the re-bellion, and in the Spanish war, for in maintaining wine rooms and similar bellion, and in the Spanish war, for every soldier the whites furnished, the negroes furnished three.

Mr. Case then occupied a few minutes in summing up and Will Ray added to the laurels he had already won in his sharp and pointed rebuttal.

The judges, who were designated by the governor as the "jury," retired and after a few minutes returned with their verdict. Fisher Harris announced the decision and in doing so paid a their verdict. Fisher Harris announced the decision and in doing so paid a pretty compliment to Miss Sheehy as well as her colleagues, but in facing stern duty the judges felt that the victory was won by the Utah boys. This announcement, though not a surprise, was followed by a din that would have made pandemonium look like an examination room.

The following half hour or so was utilized in carrying the three Utah de-baters up and down the streets on the shoulders of a crowd of wild students.

Emperor William wished to spend 5,500,000 marks ($1,375,000) for the construction of a new railroad station at Homburg, but the conservatives in the diet refused such a large appropriation for a railroad station at such a small town. Emperor William is proceeding to press his scheme, however, and a curious scene occurred in the royal waiting room of the Homburg station yesterday when his majesty ordered the burgomaster of Homburg and a number of prominent citizens of the town to of prominent citizens of the town to attend a meeting in the waiting room and hear Herr Thielen, the Prussian minister of public works, lecture on the destrability of the proposed new sta-tion at Homburg, and the architects explain their plans of the projected building.

PARISIANS VERY INDIFFERENT. Paris, May 15 .- The American visit ors here cannot understand the seeming indifference of the Paristans in regard to the Martinique disaster. Beyond the half-masted flags over the government offices there are no signs of public mourning. The people flock to their usual resorts, attend the races, fill the theaters, none of which have been closed, no "extras" are issued, and there is no demand for them. But the evening papers containing bulletins of the automobile races are eagerly pur

Mr. Croker said he saw his own friends split up, some of them voting for Mr. Van Wyck and others for Mr. Feitner. He expressed himself as very sorry that Lewis Nixon had resigned as chairman of the finance committee. He said he had given no orders, but that he had left the matter entirely to the leaders to decide. Mr. Croker said he had cabled Mr. Nixon last Wednesday to do just as he pleased, and "If Mr. Nixon could not control them, it was not my fault."

Mr. Croker said he had no intention of returning to New York in August and that he could not say when he would go back.
